February 2018

Dear Grandview Parents/Guardians,

During the week of February 5th through February 9th Grandview will take part in National School Counselors Week. Schools throughout the state will celebrate this week by participating in classroom and school-wide activities. The topic for School Counselors Week this year is “Helping Students Reach for the Stars”.

In honor of National School Counselor’s week, Mrs. Balint and I will be delivering daily morning announcements and everyone will participate in a school wide bulletin board contest. To create some excitement regarding the upcoming Olympic games, each student will create their own unique Olympic medal depicting their “star quality”. The behaviorists will choose select medals to be winners and representative of “Team Grandview” and be presented on our “Go for the Gold” bulletin board in the main hallway. Winners will receive Olympic medal necklaces and have the opportunity to select coupons for a homework pass, bringing in a stuffed animal to school, sitting with a friend from a different class for lunch, and more.

Selected writing prompts, books, and activity suggestions will also be sent to all teachers.

At home you can continue to reinforce this topic by talking with your child about their future goals and the steps needed towards achieving them. As always, thank you for your continued support and feel free to contact us with any questions, comments, or concerns.

Yours truly,

Dr. Heather Blumert and Mrs. Maria Balint
